OLIVE OIL

We are experts in dealing with “ Liquid Gold of Mediterranean ” according to the characterization given by Homer to olive oil, which comes from the pressing of the olive fruit and is considered as structural component of the Global Standard of healthy diet.

Why our Olive Oils and Olive products are specifically from Greece ?

The first large-scale cultivation of Olives is believed to have taken place in Greece during the Minoan period in Crete before 2000 B.C. According to Ancient Greek mythology, the Olive was first presented to Athena as a “gift from Gods”. In the Ancient Olympic Games, which took place every four years in Olympia, the sole prize was an olive branch that, when placed on the head of the winner indicated the highest honor and symbolized peace.

In the Panathenaic Games, which took place in Athens in honor of the Goddess Athena, the winner's prize was an Amphora filled with Olive Oil.

WINES

The culture of wine in Europe predates the Romans: in ancient Greece, wine was praised by poets, historians and artists, and was frequently referred to in the works of Aesop and Homer. Dionysus, the Greek God of wine, represented not only the intoxicating power of wine, but also its social and beneficial influences. He was viewed as the promoter of civilization, a lawgiver, and lover of peace, as well as the patron deity of agriculture and the theatre. Indeed, according to ancient Greek historian Thucydides, "the peoples of the Mediterranean began to emerge from cruelty when they learnt to cultivate the Olive and the Wine".

Wine culture was believed to have been introduced to India by Persian traders sometime in the 4th millennium BC. During the Period of the 2nd and 1st millennia, the Aryan tribes of the region were known for their indulgence in wine. The text of the Ancient Books mention at least one alcoholic drink that may have been wine related - Sura, which seems to have been a type of Wine that was fermented with Honey. The first known mention of grape-based wines was in the late 4th century BC writings of Chankya who was the chief minister of Emperor Chandragupta Maurya.

Types Of Wines :

Sparkling Wine - The "sparkles" in Sparkling wine are bubbles of carbon dioxide, which is a natural byproduct of the fermentation process. Champagne is one of the well known sparkling wine. Although many dry sparkling wines are referred to as champagne, technically Champagne is a sparkling wine from the Champagne region of France.

Red Wines - Red wines are made from "black" (red-colored) grapes fermented with the skin included. The skin is what imparts the red color to the wine. Red wines typically have a more robust flavor, and pair well with food that is similarly robust, such as red meats (lamb), hearty pasta dishes, etc. They are usually drunk at or just below room temperature.

White wines - White wines are from either "black" (red-colored) or "white" (green-colored) grapes, fermented without the skin. White wines are usually drunk cold, with lighter foods such as poultry and fish.

Rosé wines - Rose Wines are pink or blush-colored. The pink color comes from the fact that the grape skin is included for just the first few hours of the fermentation process, or sometimes due to the wine being a mixture of red and white wines. Most rosé wines are medium-sweet, especially in the US. But some of the best European rosés can be very dry. The sweeter rosés tend to be favorites of people who are new to wine, because they are often light and somewhat sweet. For this reason, they are a good choice if you are new to wine.

Banana

The Banana Plant, or Musa acuminata, is one of the most important fruiting plants on the planet Earth. A 2011 study of production and exportation of bananas by the Food and Agricultural Organization found that worldwide, a total crop of 145 million metric tones was produced and India led the world by producing 20% of this, followed by Philippines. We are proud exporters of bananas from these two countries.

A medium-sized banana contains approximately 9% potassium, 11% vitamin C, 33% vitamin B6, 14% manganese, 10% copper, and 8% magnesium of the recommended dietary intake (RDI) along with a range of antioxidants. Moreover, significant amounts of vitamin A, vitamin C, iron, zinc, niacin, thiamin, and selenium are also present. The most abundant forms of carbohydrates found in bananas include glucose, sucrose, and fructose.

Specification of Cavendish Banana provided by us :

Packaging (an important aspect) :

- Packed in vacuum Poly-bag in strong corrugated boxes
- PE Foam protection between each layer of banana
- 13.5-kg. Net Weight Box: 1,540 boxes per 40-ft. reefer container, non-palletized.

We observe the following guidelines for processing and packing:

a) No "high packing" and no added clusters to boxes unless directed otherwise by the Buyer. This reduces bruising and premature ripening.

b) All bananas will be thoroughly dried before packing so as to ensure no moisture content in vacuum sealed bags above 10%. This reduces scarring of fruit. We include a temperature recorder device in the containers to monitor temperature for the entire duration of the shipment trip. We include ethylene filters in containers to prevent premature ripening.

c) Major advantages of our packaging are :

1. Hygiene : The atmosphere is kept free of Micro-Organism, Ethelyn and Fungi.
2. Chlorophyll loss is delayed.
3. Environmental pollution, the mixture of the odour and pathology development are drastically reduced.

Health Benefits of Cavendish Banana

(as evidenced by various worldwide studies) :

1. A great energy source. The carbohydrate content is simply enough to block the stomach. Reportedly, the athletes consume bananas to increase energy instantly when competing.
2. Makes the heart healthy. This is due to the high potassium content and is very effective in preventing high blood pressure which is the source of a heart attack.
3. Balances blood. Cavendish bananas are rich in vitamin B6, which plays an active role in the formation of antibodies and hemoglobin in the blood. Vitamin B6 is also known as balancing sugar levels in blood.
4. Protects the nervous system and the potential for stroke away.
5. Mood booster. Because bananas contain tryptophan, a compound that plays a role of serotonin, a substance that is responsible for feelings of happiness and relax in humans.
6. Maintains kidney health. Because potassium in Cavendish bananas could reduce eksreksi calcium in the urine.
7. Soothes the stomach and relieves the pain of wounds in the stomach.

RICE

Rice is the seed of the grass species Oryza sativa which was domesticated roughly 10,000 to 14,000 years ago. The two main edible subspecies of rice – Indica & Japonica - have both originated from Asia and historians believe that the Indica variety of rice was first domesticated in the area covering the foothills of the Eastern Himalayas (i.e. north-eastern India).

Rice is a major portion of diet for more than half of the world's population. White rice is the most commonly consumed type, but brown (whole grain) rice is becoming increasingly popular due to its further health benefits.

The impact of the Rice :

Two Japanese car brands have been named after rice : Toyota, meaning "Bountiful Rice Field," and Honda, meaning "Main Rice Field". The Chinese word for rice is the same as the word for food. In Thailand, when you call your family to a meal, you say, "Eat rice". The custom of throwing a handful of rice at newly weds originally symbolized fertility and the blessing of many children. Today it symbolizes prosperity and abundance.
